Defendant's debt collection calling practices violate the TCPA. Defendant is a debt collection company which specializes in student loan debt recovery. As part of its business, Defendant places telephone calls to persons like Swanson in an attempt to recover on their student loans. Plaintiff alleges that such calls are made in violation of the TCPA because NCS places the calls using an automatic telephone dialing system without first securing prior express consent. NCS denies that any violation of the TCPA occurred and has filed its Answer and affirmative defenses.

2. Proposed Deadline for Joining Additional Parties.

The parties agree that additional parties will be joined by January 22, 2020.

3. Consent to a Magistrate.

4. Discovery Plan.

A. Initial Disclosures.

Plaintiff served her initial disclosures on November 5, 2019. NCS served its initial disclosures on November 6, 2019.

B. Subjects, Timing, and Phasing of Discovery.

The parties anticipate discovery concerning the following topics: records of phone calls made by NCS to Plaintiff and members of the putative class; NCS's call lists; NCS's dialing technology; NCS's records of consent, if any; class certification; and any expert opinions proffered by either party.

The parties do not believe that discovery should be conducted in phases.

As to the timing of discovery, Plaintiff proposes the following tentative schedule:

Event	Proposed Date
Fact Discovery Cutoff	May 15, 2020
Initial Expert Reports Due	June 15, 2020
Rebuttal Expert Reports Due	July 15, 2020

The parties propose that a subsequent case management conference be held following a decision on class certification to establish deadlines for the remainder of the case, including dispositive motion deadlines, pre-trial, and trial.

Plaintiff's proposed deadlines for briefing class certification are beyond the period set forth in LCR 23(i)(3), however good cause exists for an extension. Plaintiff's proposed schedule will ensure that a motion for class certification is filed on a fulsome record after an adequate period of class and expert discovery. "The class action determination can only be decided after the district court undertakes a "rigorous analysis" of the prerequisites for certification." ABS Entm't, Inc. v. CBS Corp., 908 F.3d 405, 427 (9th Cir. 2018) (quotations omitted); See also Federal Judicial Center, Manual for Complex Litigation, Fourth § 21.133 ("Some local rules specify a short period within which the plaintiff must file a motion to certify a class action. Such rules, however, may be inconsistent with Rule 23(c)(1)(A)'s emphasis on the parties' obligation to present the court with sufficient information to support an informed decision on certification. Parties need sufficient time to develop an adequate record.").

NCS asserts that compiling records of consent and calls over a four-year TCPA class period is time consuming and may require expert analysis. Thus extending the class certification deadline beyond the period set forth in LCR 23(i)(3) (March 17, 2020) is necessary.

C. Electronically Stored Information (ESI).

The parties have reported that they are taking reasonable steps to preserve potentially relevant ESI in their possession. The parties have agreed to negotiate in good faith to prepare a

1 time, but reserve the right to seek such limitations in the future. 2 The parties will meet and confer regarding all discovery disputes as required by Local Rule 3 37, and—if the parties cannot resolve the dispute—agree to mutually decide whether to submit the 4 dispute to the Court by motion under Local Rule 7(d) or through the expedited joint motion 5 procedure contemplated by Local Rule 37(a)(2). Third-party discovery will likely be limited, but the parties agree to share information 6 7 obtained through third-party discovery, and will revisit the need for a cost-sharing agreement with 8 respect to third-party discovery should the need arise. 9 The parties agree to revisit the need for discovery conferences, case management 10 conferences, or settlement conferences should the need arise. 11 Ε. Anticipated Discovery. See above. 12 13 F. Phasing Motions. 14 See above. 15 G.
